SCIENCE HAS MINE STRIKE CURE

Coal Can Be Left in Ground and Used by Pumping Air and Steam Through Veins of Fuel.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 6.—Strikes of coal miners need not worry future generations. The coal's energy can be obtained and harnessed as it lies in the ground.

The process is quite simple. Holes are drilled into the coal seams. Air and steam are then pumped into the holes and the coal is changed into a combustible gas which is pumped out of other holes. The combustible gas so produced may be converted into electricity by central power stations or may be distributed in pipes by the usual method.

The theory is known to the scientific world. One of the customary and most efficient methods of getting energy from coal in large manufacturing plants is to make from it a combustible gas by pumping air and steam through the coal into gas producers. Sir Oliver Lodge, eminent English scientist, recently proposed doing the same thing underground.

Dr. Raymond P. Bacon, director of the Mellon Institute, advances the plan as a curb on high wages and labor troubles at the mines.

"With the present very high cost of labor and its ever-increasing demands," Dr. Bacon says, "the way to bring down the high cost of living is to reduce the labor by taking every advantage of advances in science and engineering to do the things with a labor-saving device."

"One fundamental reason that labor is so costly and can afford to make such great demands is that there is a real shortage of labor. Almost any man willing to work can get a job at high wages. Even with the present high prices of coal the actual return to the mine owner probably does not average more than 20 cents a ton of bituminous coal. By utilizing the proposal of making gases from the coal in the ground the gaseous equivalent of a ton of coal probably could be delivered on top of the ground for a cost of 50 cents, including the 25 cent return to the owner of the mine."

"Dr. Bacon admits that it will require great engineering skill and considerable experimental work to do this efficiently. One thing which has retarded such development in the past has been the ash or mineral matter in the coal which in time tends to choke the combustion of the coal underground.

"This difficulty," he says, "probably can be overcome by operating small areas at a time. In fact, all the difficulties can be met, for the time is rapidly approaching when they must be met. The price of coal is a basic price for everything. High prices of coal mean high prices of all commodities. Carrying out the process on a large scale would reduce the price of coal and set free a large number of men for work in other industries."

QUICK ACTION WILL SAVE SERBIA

Thousands of Population Will Die
This Winter Unless Great Britain and America Send Food and Clothing.

Belgrade, Nov. 6.—During the war Serbia lost one million out of a population of four million souls. This winter she will lose by exposure and disease thousands more unless prompt action is taken. This is due to conditions which the two nations who are supposed to have "relieved"
her—Great Britain and America—have had ample time and resources to remove.

When the relief missions were sent out at the beginning of the year those who went to Serbia found a country in such a terrible condition that no other part of Europe—not even Belgium or Poland—could in any way compare with it. Typhus, consumption and dysentery were everywhere.
The people were going about in bits of sackcloth together with smaller bits of rags. Live stock and crops had been taken by the Bulgars and food was a paramount necessity.

Each nation ran its missions in a characteristic fashion. The British,
after a long period of negotiations, settled down to work, and carried through some food relief. The Americans, arriving later and promising less, actually brought a greater measure of relief. But it is to be feared that their many business activities absorbed all the attention that was left over from supplying the actual need of the moment—food. In August, under instructions from Paris,
all relief missions were withdrawn.

Fortunately there exist in Serbia certain British women who have raised the name of Britain here higher than at lands anywhere else in the world. These are the workers of the Scottish Women's Hospitals and the Serbian Relief Fund. The latter has done more for the country than all the other organizations, official and unofficial, put together.

Since the armistice the Serb, relying on promises of clothing and shelter for the winter, has set himself to put his house in order. The results on the whole are fairly creditable.
Owing to the necessity of keeping his army mobilized and in constant training against attack from the east or west, he has had practically no labor.

Now, after applying himself with all resources and energy to the task of restoring his roads, railways, electric light systems and the like, he finds himself deserted by his allies, their pledges unfulfilled and every prospect of losing thousands of decimated manhood through the precise conditions which caused the awful death rate from disease last winter.

What makes him feel especially bitter is the fact that he knows that the relief missions are continuing to function in Austria, Hungary and Germany. The Serbian relief fund is still carrying on with the very limited means at its disposal. Its officials are endeavoring to construct some kind of shelter against the winter in some of the villages which have suffered the most.

Let Sir William Goode send, while there is yet time, the shipload of blankets, leather, flannel and cloth that was promised as late as last February. This could be distributed by the Serbian relief fund and could, if necessary, be delivered against payment by the Serbian government. The cost would be very small and it would save thousands of lives.

WERE NO DRUNKS HERE IN MONTH

Police Records Show That Last Arrest For Public Intoxication Was Made on October 5—Police Court Quiet Today.

For the first time in the history of police court there has been no line-up of drunks on the days following an election, and in fact there has not been an arrest on a charge of public intoxication in Kingston since October 5, as a glance through the police "black book" shows.

Since the constitutional amendment was adopted there has been a noticeable dropping off in the number of arrests for public intoxication and when 275 became the strongest drink in Kingston, and the country at large the old time drunks began to become noticeable by their absence. With the adoption of one-half of 1 per cent beer as a thirst quencher it seems probable the police docket will contain the old familiar entry, "drunk and making a nuisance of himself," even less frequently.

Aside from a speeder or two the police have not found it necessary to make an arrest in the past few days, and today the police docket was again white and spotless.

Coal Workers Say Injunction Prevents Settlement—Both Sides Favor Settlement Without Government Aid—Nothing in Injunction to Prevent Negotiations.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 6.—With but 48 hours remaining before the formal hearing on the government's petition for injunction against the officials of the United Mine Workers of America, is called before Judge Anderson in Indianapolis, there is a strong feeling in all circles here that something will happen to effect a settlement out of court.

Despite defiant statements and claims of the opposing factions, it is very apparent that both are willing to get together in an effort to settle their differences providing a way can be found which will enable each side to retire gracefully from the field of battle without loss of prestige.

The government's attitude in remaining firm on the injunction procedure seems to be the stumbling block according to the expressed views of the leaders. The government absolutely refuses to vacate the injunction proceedings until the strike order has been rescinded and the men go back to work.

The United Mine Workers claim that if the injunction was called off the miners and operators could get together in 24 hours, but that the strike would not be called off until a new wage agreement was executed. The operators reiterate that they are willing to enter into negotiations with the miners.

Both sides have expressed a preference to settling with each other rather than referring the matter to an industrial commission appointed by the president.

Over night the situation remained unchanged on the surface but today is expected to bring developments tending towards an eleventh hour settlement.

The position of the department of justice is that the strike is unlawful and being unlawful, cannot receive official sanction. Likewise, because it is pronounced unlawful, the federal government cannot arbitrate it or otherwise have anything to do with it save through the federal courts.

Nevertheless, it is pointed out there is nothing in the injunction like tying the hands of either the operators or miners, insofar as reaching an agreement between themselves is concerned, thus bringing the strike to an immediate end.

In which case—the strike being no longer in existence—the injunction proceedings in Indiana would automatically cease.

The cabinet will meet tomorrow and will discuss the government's future course and particularly the plea of labor that injunction proceedings be vacated.

Unless the coal strike comes to an end by next Saturday, the government will ask that the restraining order against the miners' officials be made permanent.

He Celebrated.

Edward Ward, a young man who lives in Lloyd, Ulster County, and is employed in Schuylle's grape juice factory in Highland, came to Poughkeepsie the first thing Tuesday morning after casting his vote and proceeded to take aboard a considerable cargo of wine. In consequence, he was found unconscious lying in the ferry house when Patrolman McCaffery was making his rounds in the forenoon and was taken to the police station where he continued in the state of coma until early Wednesday morning. The police were able to hold an unsatisfactory conversation with Ward about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning and succeeded in learning his name and a few minor details. Ward did remember enough, however, to be able to tell the sergeant some interesting things about the dispensing of wine in Poughkeepsie and thus the police were afforded evidence which will be of value in enforcing the dry law here.

Henry Clay

Thought more of a Shave
than a Vote

THE unswerving self-respect that made Henry Clay say he would rather be right than be President, was reflected in his insistence on a cleanly shaven face.

In one hard fought campaign when political differences were making life-long enemies, Clay's barber, Jerry Murphy of Lexington, stoutly refused to vote for him, yet Clay would not withdraw his patronage, rightly deeming a shave under Jerry's well-balanced blade worth something more than a vote. And this fine, old-time razor which Clay would not give up is today even more completely the choice of the man who wants a real shave—because to its time-proven perfections have been added the safety, the extra-convenience of the guarded and double-edged

DRAINAGE AMDT THOUGHT ADOPTED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Unofficially, it is indicated that the state electorate Tuesday voted to authorize the legislature to enact general laws to provide a manner by which absent voters may cast their ballot at any general election.

Only one other of the four constitutional amendments voted upon is believed, from early returns, to have been approved—the amendment declaring the use of property for the drainage of swamp or agricultural land to be a public use.

At the secretary of state's office today it was said that early indications are that the amendments seeking increased remuneration for the judges of the court of appeals and the legislators in both branches would fail of approval. Officially, this will not be known until some time next week, it was stated.

Get Rid of Your Gas Grouch for Good

Don't have a grudge against the Gas man. It's not his fault that you persist in squandering precious fuel. He can't help it. But you can, however. Here's how—simply equip that car of yours with a New Stromberg Carburetor.

That's all. Right away mileage begins to multiply. Costs fall off. You go farther on fewer gallons of fuel. Your engine loses its gas greed. Then when you do wheel up to a supply station it's with a feeling of satisfaction that you have had the longest possible run for your money. There is no greed for gas.

New listen brother—don't say "that might work on some cars—but mine, well, I don't know."

Your car is no exception. Its exact duplicate, by the scores, are Stromberg equipped—and are giving more mileage by many miles, than you are getting.

The New Stromberg holds official economy records on virtually every make of machine.

On any car, of any year, of any size it invariably effects greater gas economy. Not only that—it actually gives better acceleration—more power and more speed. Makes a better car of the best of them.

Come in and let us show you just why and just how the New Stromberg puts a crimp in fuel consumption. Put a New Stromberg on your car. Put it to a ten day test. See the savings. Figure the economy. Let the facts. Then if you are not satisfied—we will take it back and refund your purchase price without a question.

COFFEY WILL FIGHT VALLON

In the Main Room at the Third Smoker of the Kingston Athletic Club on November 12—Chief First Bout Arranged—Expert Record (Contd.).

Vincent Coffey, the local boxer, will meet Jimmy Vallon of Newark, N. J., in the main bout at the third smoker of the Kingston Athletic Club to be held in Griffiths's Hall on Thursday evening, November 12. Both men will weigh in at 135 pounds, and will box eight rounds. Coffey was to be matched with Christal, the Newburgh fighter, but Christal wanted a larger financial consideration for the bout than the club officials thought he was worth. Vallon, who will fight Coffey that night, is said to be an exceptionally fast fighter, and those who have seen him in action say he will put up an even better exhibition than the Christal-Coffey go that fell through. Vallon will make Vincent step some in order to breeze in winner of the bout.

There will also be two fast six round bouts in addition to the main bout. Trick Kelly of Wappingers Falls will meet Young Albert of Newark, N. J. Both men will tip the scales at 130 pounds ringside. Albert is said to be very fast. Both he and Kelly saw service overseas with Uncle Sam and took part in a number of boxing matches.

The second six round bout is between Joe Riley of this city, and Willie Collins of Newburgh. Both weigh 137 pounds. Riley is said to be a conger in the boxing game, and Collins has been seen in action by some of Kingston's boxing fans. This should prove one of the best bouts of the evening.

The preliminary of four rounds will be staged between John Troy and Jim Howe, both of Kingston. Both Troy and Howe are clever with the gloves, and they will put up a good bout.

Those who attended the first and second of the series were more than satisfied with the bouts put on and may expect to see something even better at the third smoker. The boxing game is being revived throughout the country, and Kingston is again on the boxing map. All the club asks is the support of the fans and in return will stage some boxing cards that will equal any in this vicinity. Tickets for the third smoker may now be obtained and Griffiths's Hall promises to be filled.

It will be seen by the card that several of the boys to fight that evening are from Newark. At the previous smokers some of the Newark boys made a decided hit, and so far not one of them has proved a lemon.

FOOTBALL AT CREST OF WAVE

Popularity of Game Greatest Ever Known—Longer Season Advocated—Scheme to Pick Championship Team.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Nov. 6.—In line with every other form of sport, college football promises to reach heights this year never before attained. Always the most popular form of outdoor sport in the fall, gripping because the gridiron battles have been of them more than simply interest in the outcome as measured from a public standpoint, there is every indication that the game this season, both as regards amateur sport and the gate, will far exceed any other similar season.

The war put a quietus on football to an extent, but this year it has shown a reaction that is reflected in the crowds that attend the games and in better contests. There is always something that thrills about the rivalry between institutions of learning, and there is no better method of settling their differences than these gridiron battles. Intercollegiate debates may be all right in their way, but it takes athletic contests, football especially, to really help rank the college with the public at large.

The only regrettable feature of the football season is that it is not longer a lengthened season would go far towards settling many disputed questions as to which institution had the better team, which system of coaching yielded the best results. As it is now, the only way of determining anything approaching a football championship, particularly of the east, is by way of comparative results, and everyone knows how unreliable these often are, because all the big colleges do not play one another.

The west has its conference games and the winner of the "Big Ten" with some show of justification has been hailed as the champion of the middle west. But no such method obtains in the east, and the consequence is that the titular college honors furnish no end of argument, and will continue to do so as long as some of the larger institutions do not meet.

What college football needs is a final game, some thing on the order of the world's series in baseball. This way of having champions of the coast colleges, of the middle west and the eastern end in doubt is all wrong, and only can be righted by an extension of the season, which as the climate obtains during playing time is hardly possible. But it would be ideal and serve to settle many arguments were it possible for the sectional winners to meet and definitely determine the disposition of the gridiron crown.

The American sporting public dearly loves a champion. Whether it is in professional or amateur sports an effort is always being made to determine and honor the ultimate title holder. It was this spirit which was responsible for the world series in professional baseball. Now there is a scheme on foot to work out some sort of an American championship for college football. This year there are no inter-sectional games of importance by which the relative strength of the east and west can be determined.

The proposal is therefore being made that at the end of the season a committee of football experts pick an all-eastern football team made up from the strongest eleven in this section and match it against an all-western eleven. This is proposed as a substitute for the more local but impotent game played a round robin schedule, with the winner meeting the winner of the conference Association of the Middle West.

The difficulty of arranging a series of three sort is that the eastern colleges, at least Harvard, Yale and Princeton will never consent to enter such an agreement or league. Efforts have been made for many years to get these three principals to come out of their little triangular league and meet the other big universities of the east. But for reasons which seem to be sufficient for them they cannot be lured and the other colleges are about ready to let them go their own way. Therefore the suggestion of another plan is being made at some kind of post-season football.

It is easy to see that the selection of the all-eastern team as proposed would not be satisfactory. On the first place the proposal smacks too much of professionalism to suit

A LONG DAY.

Probably Explained Some Election Officials' Mistakes.

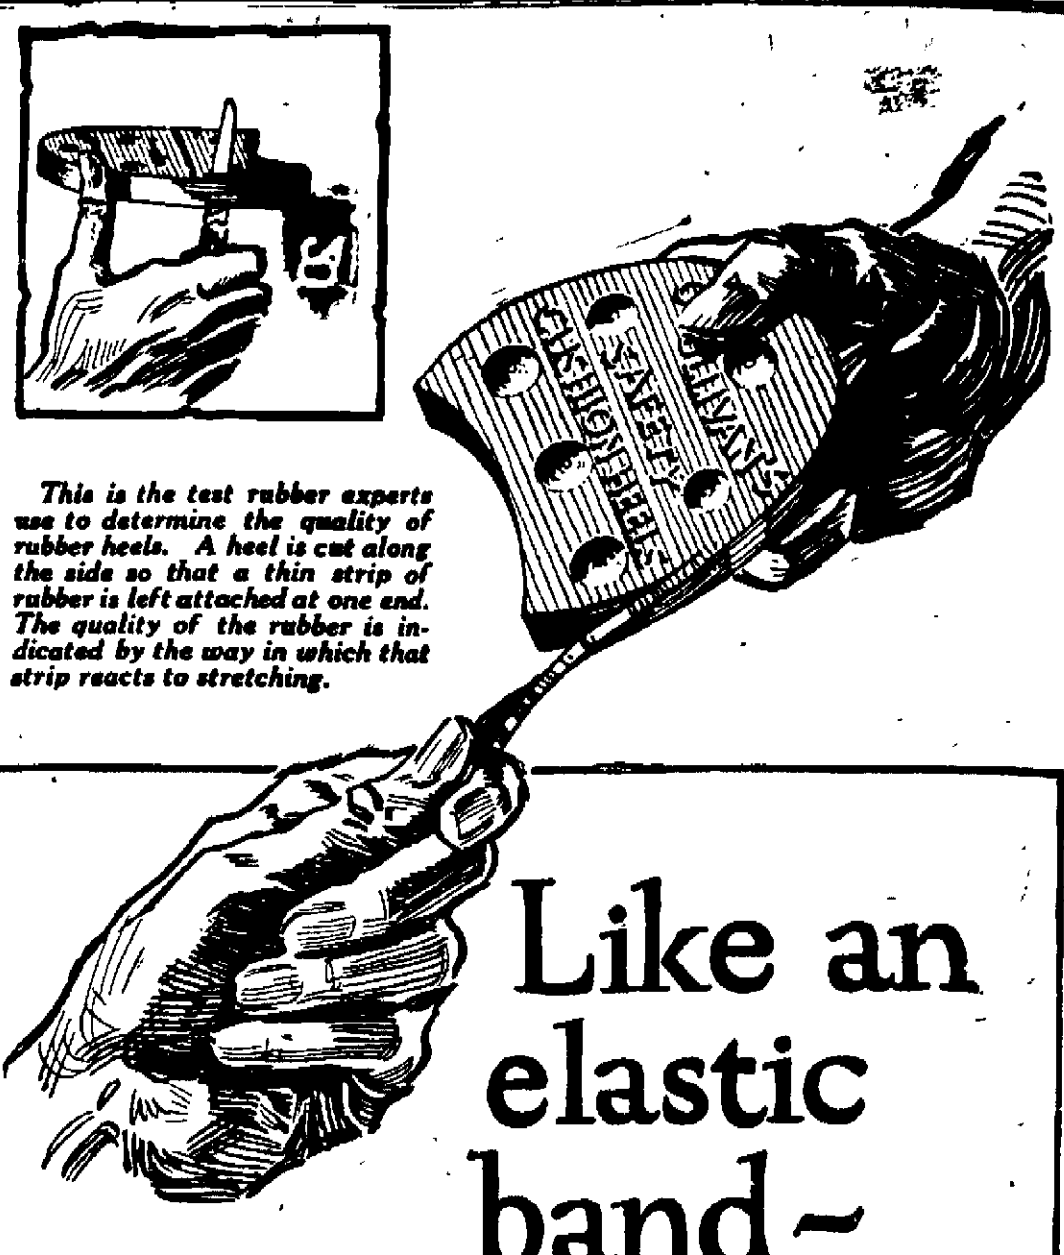

The reason the election returns from the Fourth ward were not returned to the board of elections and to the city clerk Wednesday was that the inspectors locked them up in the big ballot box after completing their canvass of the vote on Tuesday night. They were called to the city hall today to open the ballot box and take them out and file them. A chairman of one of the city wards Wednesday picked up by mistake the tally sheet and inspectors' returns of the First ward at the city clerk's office after leaving his returns and carried them to the board of election office on Green street and left them there. Some of the chairman forgot to return the American flag to the board of elections and many of the inspectors from the town brought the return that they should have left with their town clerk to the board of elections.

Man 22, Hanged Himself.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Charles Marston, 22, of Houskeeper, has been solved with the discovery of his body hanging from a tree just north of Newburgh last line. Marston came to Newburgh about two weeks ago to live his daughter, Mrs. Gustave Johnson, 152 North Miller street. He committed suicide.

Not Very Thick.

New shrimpsmen fell for wretched impure is only enough of one-shred of an inch thick.

This is the test rubber experts use to determine the quality of rubber heels. A heel is cut along the side so that a thin strip of rubber is left attached at one end. The quality of the rubber is indicated by the way in which that strip reacts to stretching.

Like an elastic band~

A STRIP cut from the side of an ordinary rubber heel either stretches very little or else snaps easily. A heel like this is hard and "dead". Like a hard leather heel, it wears down quickly.

A strip cut from the side of an O'Sullivan Heel stretches and springs back like an elastic band.

This test shows clearly the remarkable springiness and toughness of O'Sullivan's Heels. It shows why O'Sullivan's absorb the shocks of walking on hard, unyielding pavements. It shows that there is enough "give" in O'Sullivan's Heels to prevent their grinding down rapidly.

O'Sullivan's Heels are guaranteed to wear twice as long as ordinary rubber heels—they will outlast three pairs of leather heels.

Go to your shoe-repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.

PERSIAN SHAH IN BAD IN PARIS

Elder Persian Statesmen Say That Young Shah Does Not Fall For Pretty Ankles—Virtually a Prisoner in Luxembourg Palace.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Nov. 6.—Nobody is having a harder time of it here in Paris than the poor young Shah of Persia. The young Shah is constantly under the eyes of the elder Persian Statesmen who accompanied him to the French capital, and for all the joy he gets out of life he is as well as an absolute prisoner in his luxurious suite in the Hotel Meurice.

The Shah arrived unaccompanied and will receive that status until he returns from a trip to Nice in a few weeks. Then he will be received officially by the French government.

Meanwhile, the elder statesmen are seeing to it that he doesn't have an opportunity to fall for the wiles of French slim ankles or become known in Paris history like England's late King Edward or any others of a host of European sovereigns.

All the Shah's needs are served in an apartment in the Meurice. When he goes out he is accompanied by a host of European sovereigns.

by members of the Persian colony in France.

The Shah is a pleasant young chap, they say around the Meurice. He regards with considerable interest everything he sees about the place and every body, including even the fair women who assemble in the afternoon for tea. In fact, it is the general opinion around the hotel that the Shah, if he is not accompanied and guided by the elder statesmen, might like to "step out" some night and see the town.

AT THE THEATERS.

Checkers on Film Better Than on Stage.

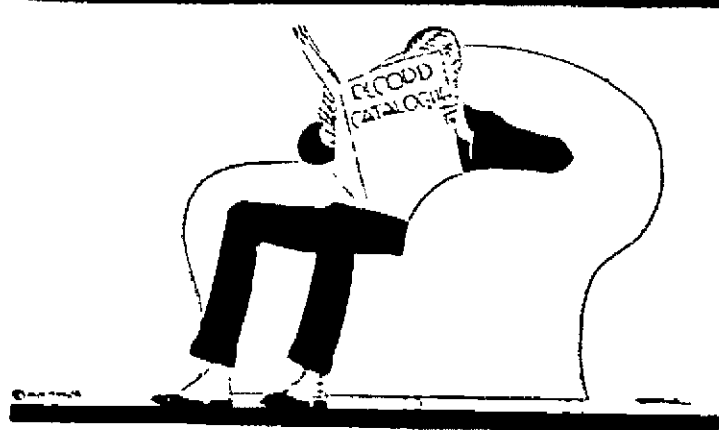

The star? Marguerite Clark! The story? "Come Out of the Kitchen." This is the play in which Ruth Chatterton was carried to "fame" almost overnight and which is to be shown at Keeney's tonight and tomorrow.

"Checkers," the spectacular picture made by William Fox, which opened at the Kingston Opera House this afternoon for a three days' engagement, is even better as a picture than it was as a stage play. There will be three shows daily at 2:20, 7 and 9.

The new John Emerson-Anita Loos satirical photoplay "Good-bye, Bill!" which is the bill at the Auditorium tonight, is a travesty on the many Kaiser plays that have lately been produced.

An opportunity will at last come to see one of the most talked of musical comedies of the American stage, "The Flying Princess," and with it the distinctly American and funny comedian, Harry Belcher, the original role in which he made Chicago stand on her toes with laughter for an entire year at the LaSalle Theatre. This splendid, humorous story of the life of "sporty" life of New York city will be at the Kingston Opera House next Tuesday.

The Batem Musical Comedy Company of 22 people, mostly girls, featuring Bart Crawford and "Rastus" will be at the Orpheum all next week, being old favorites at this popular amusement theatre, and are certain to play to capacity houses. Today there is an entire change of roadshow acts and the film picture is Tom Mix in "Fighting for Gold," a rip-roaring western drama with a like beer, and Miss Toddy Sampson, this new dancing lady.
